LOVE OF ACTOR

Hopelessly Infatuated with Player, Pretty Pearl Chester, of Harlem, Throws Herself Into Niagara River Below Falls.

LEAVES PATHETIC NOTE TO MAN SHE LOVED.

Hat, Photograph and Missive Are Found on Brink of Rapids -Girl Had Followed Man All Over Country.

PEARL CHESTER'S SAD FAREWELL MESSAGE.

"Good-by, darling. You will never be bothered with me again. I knew always you did not love me, but I hoped some day you might care for me, and I lived in hope. "I learned here of your love fo another girl and realized that i was all hopeless. "I have no one to blame but my self. Good-by, darling, again to yo and to the world. I hope you will b happy with your bride,"

Pearl Chester, a pretty Harlem girl, hopelessly infatuated with W. F. Canfield, an actor, learning of his engagement to wed another, is believed to have committed suicide by going over Niagara Falls. George A. Savage, a con-tractor of Medina, N. Y., found a girl's hat and photograph with a letter pinned to it near the rapids above the falls. The letter, which was later opened by

"Good-by, darling; you will never be bothered with me again. I don't blame you for anything. I knew always that you did not love me, and I should never have tried to make myself believe that you did. But I hoped that some day you might care for me, and I lived in hope. "I came to Buffalo from Chicago to meet you, but I arrived ahead of your company. I learned here of your love for another girl and tealized that it was all hopeless. Oh, how I loved you, William! I loved you with all my heart. I could die for you and laugh as my life flickered out. To me it was all one sweet dream. "I know you dislike notoriety and I hope this will be opened only by the man that has ever held my heart and whose image and voice have been my constant thought since I first met him. "You will never know what I have suffered, and I have no one to blame but myself. Good-by, darling, again to you and the world. I hope you will be happy with your bride.

"My own little prayer before I go over that terrible brink is this: While you are winning hearts over the footlights that you will sometimes think of poor little Puss."

The note was addressed to W. F. Canfield, New Cheltenham Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y. Mr. Savage delivered the hat with the appended note and photograph to the police at Nagara Falls, who sent them to the local authorities for inthem to the local authorities for investigation.

W. F. Canfield, to whom the latter was addressed, is an actor, and when he was shown the letter and photograph he identified the picture as that of Pearl Chester, whose home was in New York City, and whose home was in New York City, and whose handwriting he identified in the note.

According to Mr. Canfield's statement, he first met Pearl Chester two years 620 in Chicago. At that time he was playing the part of a military officer in a travelling company. One day, after the matines, Pearl, who was then visiting her aunt in Chicago, was at the stage entrance when he left the theatre. She told him without hesitation that she loved him. Canfield laughed at her infatuation and told her she would soon get over it.

When Canfield was playing at tip Park Theatre in Brooklyn he received a leiter from Miss Chester, who then was in Chicago, asking him to see her pagents in Harlem. She said they would not be perfectly the control of the control ince the same had not heard from her since the same had not heard from her fit is slived that the girl, despairing of ever winning Canfled's love, ended her life by going over the falls. Her body has not yet been found.

SOUGHT DEATH IN HIS GRIEF.

Paterson Man Swallowed Acid When His Mother Died. PATERSON, N. J., Oct. 25 .- A young man named St. Lawrence is being closely watched in St. Joseph's Hospital lest he make a second attemut on his life. His mother, Mrs. Bridget St. Lawrence, His mother, Mrs. Bridget St. Lawrence, died in the hospital early last evening and soon after her buly had been removed to her norms the son was admitted to the institution.

When he heard of his mother's death the young man swallowed carbelle abid and was found unconstable in his room. His mouth was hally burned, but he had not taken conday of the poison to cause death. He was soon revived and brought to the tispital, but he afterward became delificus and regadied in that condition all night. He constantly raved about his mother. Mrs. St. Lawrence had been ill for some time and the knowledge that her ailment would prove fatal had unnerved her son.

BOY POISONED BY OPIUM.

Lad of Nine Years Dying from Effects of the Drug.

Patsy Faracco, nine years old, of No. A Garrison street, Brooklyn, is in a dangerous condition at his home from epiem poisoning. How the child took the opium is a mystery his parents are unalle to account for.

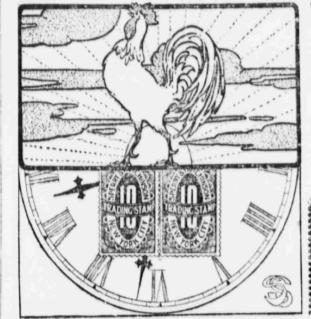

He was seized with violent cramps

He was selzed with violent cramps while essisting his father in looking after his fruit stand to-day. When convulsious followed an ambulance, was summoned from the Cumberland Street Hospital and Surgeon Ennis advised that the boy so immediately to the hospital. The parents would not consent to this and Patsy was carried home. Dr. Ennis said that there was little hope of the boy's recovery.
